By telling him that he has been seeing things, the man will appear to the humanoid grotesque of chapter 3. During these, he receives calls from Rose, who reveals that he has not been seen outside for three weeks. After this, the bodies will begin to appear in the water, apparently deceased. He will say hello to Dwayne and tell her that she has been waiting for him for so long. He finally tells him to forget it and that he does it, sending it to a well with a flaming face. Then he will open his way to a red button that opens his next section. BACKGROUND [] Chapters 1-3 [] In the first three chapters, Dwayne lives the lives of three past residences. In two and three chapters, both pain and Rakan know the name of him, talking to him vocally. The first will have a creature creature And the second shall have a glass of water on a table, and the third shall be a room full of pill bottles, and the last shall be a brick wall. Dwayne seemed to have shot himself at the end of the scene of the opening cut, which means that the protagonist is Dwayne himself is a ghost in a state of purgatory, because we see him getting up from the same room in which he murdered his family in a pile of blood. It is full of grotesque creatures holding their heads, and a line of them marching towards a glowing mouth at the back of the room. Chapter 4[] Chapter 4 is the story of Dwayne, which is told through a series of tapes. Wearing this will cause the outside rain to stop, and Dwayne will have to go down to a door, opening it will shine a bright light with her family on the other end. Dwayne talks to him but is not heard by the player, only by the masked one. You will find a key and another piece of the mask in its center. Your daughter will want a bedtime story, but he will be too busy to pay attention to her. All these cards will fly and take you to what appears to be an otherworldly pocket dimension. After fading it will become an entrance to a grocery store, stocked only with beer. Dwayne will pick a tape and watch an old flashback depicting a family having fun. He tells Dwayne that the only way to make them disappear is to keep drinking. The ground is also completely water. She will talk to Dwayne about her true identity (other than her name), all the time encouraging Dwayne to take more sips of alcohol. The masked man will reappear and tell him that it is a wonderful thing that he has trapped all these people in that world, living there for all eternity. This key opens a door that leads to a room full of pipes that connect to a well. Opening it will lead to a giant as the facilities. Chopping it will cause it to rot, and so it drops it into the well. He's the last resident of the game who lives lives lives the past traumas of the previous residents. After a few more sips, a piece of a mask will appear for Dwayne to pick up. Dwayne sits down and the TV turns on, revealing a man wearing a plague mask. She then tells him that she would be happy to help him kill himself, describing doing it in ways similar to the deaths of the other residence. He must go from each side of the room and destroy brick walls using a sledge hammer. Dwayne stocks his cart until its full while a menacing voice talks to him over the intercom. The first scene tells him to climb down into a hole. At the end of this segment, a cutscene will play that shows him watching the television and sipping beer. Once he crosses it he will reach a light house, inside of which is furniture similar to that form the beginning room. The door completely unlocked will reveal a room completely filled with cards labeled with different words that describe his mental state (anxiety, depression, etc). The final wall will have an exit sign over it and a piece of the mask in the wall, grabbing which will tear it down. She asks him if he wants to kill himself, slowly after she does her voice becomes distorted. Upon sighing, he will turn around and walk through the mob of grotesque creatures yet again. After waking up he will find a mask piece on a chair in the room he wakes up in. Dwayne must take pills placed in front of him in the right order in order to make them come off. Notably, pill bottles are prescribed in Dwayne's name, and are labeled Chlorpromazine, commonly used to treat schizophrenia and manic depression. He does, and at the top is a small table with a candle and a picture of him with his wife. Over the well hangs a tree with a singular apple. In these chapters, the former residence's ghosts will try to kill him. This could imply that he had something to do with their deaths. During these clips, the video will be interrupted with a scene of what Dwayne is What to do in the next house. The garage of him will now be full with the footprints of the Tar Guy, driving through the house, and back to the latch. Dwayne suffers from a mental illness, as it is seen through the pills scattered around the house and the mechanic of stress in the game. The next tape takes him to a room where he will have to put a record that makes one of the walls disappear. The next tape will take you to a giant steel door. He killed the whole family of him. "This indicates that Dwayne killed his family. His wife gets involved, at first getting angry, but then he cares after reflecting on how good person he used to be. The radio at the beginning of the game said: "We have a special guest with us today You will get an ax, which activates an alarm, and proceed to make a hole in the wall. Once he does it, he will walk to the back of the room where there are furniture of antagonist, and sitting at one of the seats will have a television. The next tape will take you to an underground area where he will have to illuminate the hall with only a few work lights. lights.
